Cookies Set

A total of 2 cookies were available to the websites you visited during your recording (take a look at them all!). The most naughty cookie we recognised has a possible naughtiness score of 1 out of 5 (you what?) but you may have more sinful ones.

WARNING: This report should not be viewed as gospel! Cookie logging ain't perfect and our interpretations of cookies are very fallible, but congratulations on taking the first step to creating a plan to try to comply with the EU Cookie Directive. May the force be with you.

What	1st?	Cookies Set	Possible Naughtiness	Thoughts
Session	Yes	1	1	Probably a session cookie. Sugar and spice mostly but in the hands of SPECTRE, who knows - discuss with your developer
Your Own	Yes	1	?	Have a cuppa, chat to your developer.

Over time we hope to add more information about common cookies and the directive. You can keep up to date here. Better still if you want to contribute knowledge we'd love to hear from you.

What Now?

OK, serious hat on.

We'd recommend you look at the complete log of cookies and seek to determine your own view of cookie naughtiness.

In our opinion if you have cookies with a naughtiness score of 2 or more, then the law requires you to get consent from your site visitors to use cookies. The first step in that process is to tell them what you use cookies for. That's why we've generated a cookie information page for. And good news is we can help you with that (yes, for free):

Next Step: Generate a Cookie Information Page »

Use this report entirely at your own risk, blah, blah. Spend a fortune on a lawyer and cover your site in pop-ups if you want something bullet proof. Attacat are not lawyers. In fact we are a bunch of Internet marketers keen to ensure that this directive doesn't get out of hand. If you want help with SEO, PPC, Social Media, Conversion Rate Optimisation or any other Internet marketing service, please say hello.
